
Different providers can still share one point of failure.